

It concerns me greatly that Sinclair broadcasting intends to influence the election process by airing a documentary during prime time that intentionally provides negative perceptions of a candidate. It has been my understanding that the reason we do not allow total monopoly of media ownership in various markets is because of the potential for media outlets to greatly impact public opinion.

Sinclair's intentions to broadcast such programming goes against the spirit of ensuring that the public receives fair balanced information so that it can make decisions for itself.

I hope the FCC will take immediate and decisive action to stop this before the impact becomes unfixable.
